

Grants of Leave to Remain to individuals on the ODW visa 2010- 2014

Year	Main applicants granted further to remain (LTR) <sup>1</sup>	Entrance years for potential applicants <sup>2</sup>		Percentage of potential applicants granted further leave to remain (LTR) <sup>3</sup>
2010	6,645	2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009	Average of 16,113 ODW visas issued per year <sup>4</sup> . Multiplied by 5 =80,564 potential applicants	8%
2011	6,156	2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010	16,113 ODW visas x 5=80,564 potential applicants	8%
2012	3,737	2007,2008,2009,2010,2011	16,113 ODW visas x 5=80,564	5%
2013	5,218	2008,2009,2010,2011 and 3 months of 2012	16,113 ODW visas x 4.3 years <sup>5</sup> =69,286	8%
2014	4,025	2009,2010,2011 and 3 months of 2012	16,113 ODW visas x 3.3 years <sup>6</sup> = 53,172	8%

<sup>1</sup> Source = Answer given by James Brokenshire MP on 20 January 2016 in response to Migrant Workers: Domestic Service: Written question -22508 asked by Jim Shannon MP on 13 January 2016

<sup>2</sup> This is an underestimate as does not include those who entered earlier than 5 years previously, have exercised right to change employer and who continue to apply for LTR yearly rather than having applied for Indefinite Leave to Remain.

<sup>3</sup> Rounded up or down to the nearest %

<sup>4</sup> Calculated by taking an average of the ODW visas issued during the last 5 years 2010-2014.

<sup>5</sup> This assumes that no ODWs whose visas were issued after April 2012 have successfully applied for LTR.

<sup>6</sup> This also assumes that no ODWs whose visas were issued after April 2012 have successfully applied for LTR.